Dr. Jeannine Hoang established Mansfield Dermatology with a deep commitment to give every patient the very best care possible. "I have always wanted to make a difference. I chose the medical profession because I wanted to help people and positively impact others' lives," said Dr. Hoang. "I have always been driven to work hard and be the best that I can possibly be. I view my success as who I am, what I stand for, and what kind of contribution I have made to others." An excellent student at Sam Houston High School in Arlington, Dr. Hoang went on to graduate summa cum laude from the University of Texas at Austin. She completed medical school at Baylor College of Medicine, with an internship in Internal Medicine at Presbyterian Hospital of Dallas and a residency in Dermatology at the University of Louisville in Kentucky.

Preventive & Innovative Skin Care

"Many people think that dermatology is more of a beauty field than a medical field. However, the majority of my practice is medical dermatology. We are able to diagnose and treat many serious skin conditions, including skin cancers, which can potentially be very serious and sometimes life-threatening."

Dr. Hoang also treats a wide variety of common dermatologic issues such as acne, warts, and rashes, to name just a few. Through her years of experience, Dr. Hoang has grown interested in how other aspects of healthcare, fitness, and nutrition may benefit her patients. In treating people's skin problems everyday, it became very evident that skin conditions are often an outward manifestation of internal problems. This interest has inspired her to pursue further education with a rigorous 18-month fellowship program in Anti-aging and Regenerative medicine.

New Noninvasive Therapies for Cosmetic Enhancement

Many of Dr. Hoang's patients desire enhancement without invasive procedures. "I have fashioned my cosmetic practice with this type of patient in mind," said Dr. Hoang. "I believe in natural beauty and subtle enhancements that improve a person's appearance. I tend to be conservative in my cosmetic procedures, as I don't want my patients to have that "done" look, where everyone can tell that they have undergone a procedure. I think the best treatments are those that produce enhanced beauty in the most natural-looking way, so I'm really excited about the new non-invasive procedures that we have."

Mansfield Dermatology stays on the leading edge of cosmetic dermatology and offers their patients the latest technology and procedures, including Botox/Dysport, dermal fillers, Coolsculpting (noninvasive fat reduction), Ulthera (noninvasive skin tightening), laser (for sun damage, broken blood vessels, leg veins, hair removal, wrinkles), and medical grade chemical peels. Especially exciting are new procedures such as SRT (superficial radiation), a noninvasive way to treat non-melanoma skin cancers and SkinPen, a microneedling device that improves overall skin texture and is available only through skincare professionals. SkinPen works by creating hundreds of microscopic channels into the dermis to stimulate the skin's natural production of new collagen and elastin, helping skin to look and feel healthier. SkinPen can dramatically improve acne scars, hyperpigmentation, minimize pores, soften fine lines and wrinkles, improve overall tone and texture, brighten and tighten the skin—all with virtually no risk or downtime for the patient.

Exciting Changes at Mansfield Dermatology

Dr. Hoang is proud to announce the openings of sister offices in Flower Mound and Burleson. With a very strong team of dermatology practitioners, as well as a management team that is dedicated to Dr. Hoang's mission, Mansfield Dermatology is expanding to serve more patients. Affiliated with the Mansfield Dermatology team, but separate practices, United Dermatology Associates of Flower Mound will be led by Dr. Kejal Shah and PA Stephanie Chan, and Dr. Ryan Pham will head United Dermatology Associates of Burleson. Dr. Hoang and her team of PAs, Lisa Moody, Lisa Ostrowski, and Allison Wilbanks will continue to serve patients in the Mansfield and Arlington offices. "Although we are ever expanding, growing, and changing, our fundamental values and goals are still the same. We are all here to serve our patients and to provide outstanding dermatologic care and premier customer service," said Dr. Hoang. Call today to schedule your consultation with Mansfield Dermatology or our affiliated offices, United Dermatology Associates. ///
